

Career Research Assignment Worksheet

1. Student Name: Natalie Ahern

2. Job Description: According to careerexplorer.com, UX design takes on the task of improving user satisfaction with a product by making its usability, accessibility, and interaction better.

3. Salary: According to careerexplorer.com, UX designers earn an average yearly salary of $64,787. UX designers earn an average hourly wage of $31.15.

4. Working Conditions: According to indeed.com, A day in the life of a user experience designer would include the following:

- Testing and making notes about the usability of a product
- Doing market research to understand the pros and cons of a product as part of the bigger picture
- Researching target audiences to understand how they interact with the product
- Reporting findings to upper management and to those implementing changes
- Creating prototypes to help illustrate functionality

In addition, according to careerexploror.com, An individual's strengths should determine what the best place of employment will be. For example:

- if you enjoy being involved in every detail of the user experience process, then a startup may be the right fit for you. This, of course, would entail more responsibility and learning everything from scratch.

- if you enjoy one particular part of user experience design, for example testing, then working with a team at a larger corporation could be a good match.

- if you like looking at the bigger picture and overseeing a project, then working at a larger corporation managing a user experience team could be the place you feel most comfortable.

5. Education Requirements:

According to indeed.com, Most UX designers will need at least a bachelor's degree. However, some candidates can obtain this position with equivalent work experience in the computer design or computer development industries, along with certifications that prove their skills in the field. Candidates for this position can earn degrees in computer design, computer development or a related field. Most employers prefer these disciplines because they prepare individuals for the challenges of working in the UX design industry.

6. What classes would be helpful for success in this field?

Some classes that would be helpful are, Java, computer science, graphic design, and web design.

7. Job Outlook:

Job outlook is good. Ux designers have a good chance of being needed by companies. According to dynomapper.com, for distribution of UX careers, ux designers have the highest percentage:

~UX Designers: 26%

~Interaction Designers: 24%

~Visual Designers: 23%

~Information Architects: 18%

~User Researchers: 6%

~Usability Analysts: 2%

8. Overall Pros and Cons:

Pros: 1) salary, 2) opportunity to work remote

Cons: 1) hours

9. Advancement Opportunities:

According to indeed.com, Considering that user experience designers often work in teams, there is potential to move from a more junior-level position to a senior-level position.

10. Why this job may fit you?

I am creative and like to design things.